

TRADER HORN NURSERY
Professional Xeriscape • Design & Installation

March 19, 2009

Dear AgroTech America,

Please use this letter as a referral for any company interested in using the AgroDiamond product lines for landscape projects and nursery production .

As you know I have been using your AgroDiamonds polymers for over 10 years now. Before using AgroDiamonds I tried several of the other "so called" agriculture polymers in an effort to improve plant survivability and cut water and nutrient applications. I don't have to tell you how disappointed I was in these other products. Little did I know that the only polymer made specifically for agriculture is AgroDiamonds. It wasn't hard to see the difference in a very short amount of time. Especially with my landscape projects on the Intercoastal and Ocean areas where there is a lot of wind, salt and sandy conditions. The salt tolerant trees, shrubs, and ground cover that were planted with your soil moisture amendment are not only thriving but growing faster in dry conditions. It has been the most cost effective product I have ever purchased.

Consequently, AgroDiamonds is applied in every landscape project we have and I could not be happier with the results.

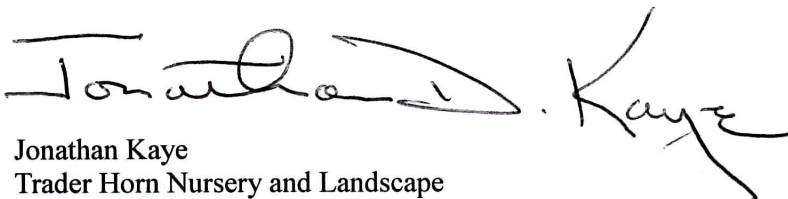

I have personally witnessed the amazing ability AgroDiamonds in capturing transient water as it moves through the soil profile, but also the AgroDiamonds ability to capture the nutrients as they move through the soil as well. As a result, the plant material thrives in the harshest of our climate changes, from too much water to extreme drought which we have had our share of over the last few years. Plants exhibit better color, more bud development, faster growth and most importantly they survive and look healthy.

I have also incorporated AgroDiamonds into our nursery production with the same kind of results.

I recently ran trials with some of your new products: AgroDiamonds Gold and AgroDiamonds fertilizer and what a difference. You have products that will change the face of the nursery and landscape industry.

I can't tell you enough how important your line of products will become to our industry, especially when you consider the ever increasing water restrictions that will soon be implemented from coast to coast.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Kaye
Trader Horn Nursery and Landscape